How does a house end up not being zoned for residence?

23. by Fullerton Resident on January 22, 2010
Lingo.

It gets re-zoned. Check out all those former single family houses along the north side of east Chapman between Victoria and Arcadia.
In the case of that Anaheim deal, those old houses were moved onto a vacant lot at the corner of Lincoln and East that was probably already zoned for some kind of commercial use.
BTW, love the handle. Maybe you should run for City Council!

What a joke dir is. This is exactly why we don't want Torry in the 4th Sup seat.

Just typical. These people sit in power atop all these crazy rules they cooked up for the rest of us to live by.
And then they get a pass. Real assured, nobody in this big family is going to vote for this Galloway person.
Just another Immature liberal playing do-gooder on somebody else's dime. Now who does that remind you of in Fullerton?

Well from what the community is saying, I hear Cheryl Sanders is the wife in sheep's clothing and one of the dishonest employees wheedling and dealing taking advantage of our tax dollars. I was told of a possible internal investigation? If so then I pray the thiefs become known and their deeds become public and they (she is brought to justice I'm so tired of public employees misusing their positions)
