DISCUSSION

J

On January 10, 2011, Governor Jerry Brown announced the State's proposed budget for FY 2011-12. One of the major components of the proposed budget is dissolving all redevelopment agencies in the State (effective July 1, 2011). On late Thursday afternoon February 24, 2011, staff received the bill language (titled "Redevelopment Agency Dissolution and Succession") related to the proposed budget and the dissolution of the Agency The proposed budget includes the creation of a successor agency to settle the affairs of the redevelopment agency. One of the components of this proposed bill is the requirement that all Agency-owned real property assets be disposed. Such disposal is to be done expeditiously and in a manner aimed at maximizing value. Proceeds from asset sales shall be transferred to the county auditor-controller for distribution. As shown in Attachment 1, there are currently 80 properties owned by the Agency of which 17 properties are for future affordable housing sites.

This proposed budget bill language makes it urgently important for the City Council to consider transfering any Agency-owned property and assets to the City. If the transfer of real property to the City does not occur and the bill passes, the assets will have to be sold expeditiously and the proceeds given to the County Auditor-Controller; therefore, allowing the State to retain commitments to local agencies. The time for action is extremely short, as the Agency would be deprived of all powers as of the date the bill is adopted (which, if it is done through urgency legislation, could occur within a couple of weeks). In conclusion, by authorizing this action the City is protecting its local assets
