Travis,

I should have asked you this from the start, but who are you again, and whom do you represent?

Secondly, a copy of one portion of one page was provided to the media who had been making constant inquiries about the exact nature of a call on Yale Ave for a specific day. That portion of one page was made available to multiple media sources once the decision was made to release it.

Interesting. If the press log is not available for copying, then how did the Voice of OC get a copy on 9/20/2010, which was published on its website?
